Extension of Microsoft Dynamics CRM 2011: xRM Time Tracking Management Module

...because your time is also your money

Escalate your trust - with integral, transparent and fair appraisal of your efforts

Our xRM module Time Tracking Management is handy and easy to handle - this is precisely its advantage. We have optimized our module keeping it within simple and efficient operations instead of overcrowding it with more or less useful project management features. It's about fast, simple and transparent time tracking management - neither more nor less.

Our Time Tracking Management Module enables the detailed evaluation and creation of corporate activity reports, even towards clients. Yearly, monthly or daily, according to client, project, order or employee - flexible and tailored to your requirements.

Thus, it is always trackable, when and with what amount of time your staff has been working on individual orders and or projects.

Thus managers are often given the opportunity to plan ahead entire projects and or orders, and even to provide it with closed, employee-specific individual tasks. The required time spent for each task can easily be reported by the staff immediately after processing and directly to the project or order in question.

Comprehensive export and printing capabilities allow further processing of the analysis data or direct forwarding to the customer.

This means another great advantage, since the cost effectiveness on the market grows, and companies must use all given opportunities to save costs and to increase efficiency - specially in project oriented business.

Our xRM Time Tracking Management Module makes just the thing possible. It allows you easily to create comprehensive and detailed appraisals - as a transparent, fair evidence of the project- or contract-related time expenses towards your clients or it provides the basis for billing towards your staff. Highly customizable dashboards will constantly give you updated information on all relevant expenses related to your clients and projects.

Any additional expenses can be justified on a solid and transparent basis.

Due to the mere fact that evaluations are close at hand at any moment with minimal effort, settlements may be effectuated even faster. This optimizes the planning for your billing, which creates trust for your customer.

Your staff will report their time expenses more thoroughly, more precisely and even prompter, as the needed effort to use our Time Tracking Management Module has become manageable and efficient.

How would it be if you could benefit from our Time Tracking Management Module. For your customers, your staff and - last but not least - for your entire company!
